

Ford, Congress Seek Energy Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders intend to avoid a veto showdown with President Ford as efforts to produce a compromise energy program center on delaying Ford's proposed oil taxes.

The House has before it Ford's veto of a bill that would delay his tariff on imported oil for 90 days. But rather than forcing an override vote, Democratic leaders are planning to shunt the veto message today to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Ford already has agreed to delay for 60 days the last two of three planned $1-a-barrel tariff increases. The first $1-a-barrel increase is in effect, but Ford's own delay took some steam out of the Democratic override movement.

Senate leaders put off the override vote indefinitely while House Republicans sought to bring it to the floor quickly because of their belief that the veto could now be sustained.

The status of Ford's energy program in Congress was expected to be discussed at a meeting today between him and his advisers.

House Speaker Carl Albert said Monday the move to delay an override vote was not a threat to hold the vote over the White House. Instead, he said, it was to show a willingness to compromise with Ford.

The Democrats claim they have the votes to override, and Albert said Ways and Means could bring out the veto message later for an override vote if negotiations fail to reconcile Ford's energy program with that developed by the congressional Democrats.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed both at the White House and on Capitol Hill that compromise negotiators are tackling specifics. Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., and Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb have met privately, and executive and legislative staffs are working together to try to find areas of accommodation.

It was suggested that one such area of compromise might involve modifying Ford's goal of reducing oil imports one million barrels a day by the end of this year. The President's proposed stiff tax on crude oil was to be a major factor in bringing this about.

Democrats have objected that such a quick reduction of energy use would deepen the recession and cost more jobs. Democrats also argue that the main brunt of energy taxation should be borne by gasoline rather than the whole range of petroleum products, including heating oil. Ford also has said he wants the major burden put on gasoline rather than home-heating oil.

In cautious testimony to the House Budget Committee Monday, Zarb said the most prominent area raised in compromise negotiations "is phasing in a program, rather than imposing it on the economy abruptly."

He said, however, the administration still adheres to the goal of cutting oil imports by one million barrels a day by the end of the year.

But the senior Republican member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is working to send an energy package to the House this month, said he thinks a compromise based on phasing in various proposals is likely.

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., said the gradual introduction could include a tax of some kind on petroleum, plus the windfall profits tax on oil companies that Ford and the Democrats have both proposed.

Lifting the remaining price controls on domestic oil and gas also might be done gradually, he said.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., head of a Democratic task force that developed a proposed party position on energy legislation, also expressed optimism that a more gradual plan might open the way to compromise.

"I just don't believe a one-million-barrels-a-day reduction by the end of this year is a realistic goal," Wright told a reporter.

There were suggestions from various Capitol Hill sources that the first $1 imported crude oil tax, which Ford ordered into effect Feb. 1 might be allowed to stand, perhaps with the understanding that gasoline would bear a substantial share of it.

Zarb told the Budget Committee the administration thinks imported crude oil should be taxed across the board, but he added, "We have got to try to see that gasoline carries its share."

Ways and Means Democrats, however, were reported not to have given up their plan for a specific gasoline tax.

Zarb also hinted that the administration might consider, on a standby basis, some authority for imposition of quotas or other direct controls on oil entering the country.

Several of the Democratic proposals that have been advanced would rely on such controls rather than the administration's price-raising strategy to keep down the importation of oil and the corresponding outflow of dollars.

In the Senate, the Finance Committee indicates it will stick to its earlier decision to remove from a $21.3-billion, tax-cut bill an amendment repealing the oil depletion allowance.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said Monday that insistence on keeping the two issues in the same bill would delay for three weeks or more final action on the House-approved tax cut.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., who is pressing for depletion repeal, moved toward compromise on Monday when he agreed to an amendment by Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., that would retain the depletion allowance for the first 3,000 barrels of oil pumped each day by an independent producer.

Long did not indicate whether he finds such a compromise acceptable.

Rhodes May Kill Plan For Petition Drive On Issues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes may abandon his plans to take his four-part economic package to voters next fall by initiative petition if the legislature "shows good faith in trying to get the proposals out" in the next week or 10 days, an aide says.

Thomas J. Moyer, Rhodes' executive assistant, made the comment Monday after the governor was urged by a Republican leader to continue to seek approval through the legislative process.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, assistant House minority leader, said in a letter to Rhodes it would be "desirable and important to have legislative deliberations and input" on the four amendments Rhodes sought unsuccessfully to put on the June 3 primary ballot.

Moyer said the governor, who announced last week he would seek 300,000 voter signatures to put his package on the November ballot, "generally agrees that it would be better to have the General Assembly pass the resolutions."

The Democratic legislature failed to meet last Wednesday's deadline for putting the Rhodes' amendments on the June ballot. Top Democratic leaders since that time have offered to work with Rhodes on the November target, but the GOP governor indicated he would want the proposals virtually unchanged from what he asked originally.

One of the Rhodes' amendments, authorizing the legislature to grant major tax advantages to industry, died a technical death in the Senate Monday night, but will be introduced again.

Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, sponsor of what had become a Democratic substitute for the governor's amendment, said he wanted to "start with a new bill" rather than try to go through the technicalities of reviving Rhodes' bill. It fell three votes short of passage when considered in the Senate last Wednesday.

The Senate, which begins its work week a day ahead of the House, held a brief floor session Monday night, but most of the attention centered on a committee trying to pump more roadbuilding funds into the Transportation Department.

Recommended by the Senate Finance Committee, at least tentatively, was a bill "loaning" the department $18.4 million from the general fund to qualify for an additional $47 million in newly-available federal highway matching funds.

The $18.4 million loan, scaled down a bit from an earlier $19 million estimate, would be repaid by the department later from revenue it receives from gasoline and highway user taxes.

Since six votes are needed for the committee to formally recommend a bill for passage, and the pending measure received a 5-1 tally, the roll call of the 11-member panel was held open until today. Sponsoring Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, said he saw "no trouble" in rounding up the needed sixth vote, however.

In other business, the Senate Rules Committee scheduled a vote today on a bill that would require ramped curbing on city streets to accommodate wheelchairs. The law would apply to new construction and renovations only. Dimensions of the ramps would conform to those required on federal property.

Across the Statehouse, the House called for votes today on measures permitting juveniles charged with felonies to be held in adult jails, and requiring the teaching of black and other minority group history in the public schools.

Yocum said Ohio still remains the hub of "the world's greatest industrial complex," extending from New York to the Mississippi River, and development programs should aim at attracting only "the best type of industry."

Yocum, whose report appeared in a university business research bulletin, said Ohio's July 1, 1973, population of 10,731,000 represented a gain of slightly more than two-tenths per cent for each year since 1970.

During the same period, he said, the national population growth was nearly one per cent a year.

Later figures were unavailable. Yocum said several big urban areas, such as Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton and Akron, saw population declines in the 1970s.

Columbus, on the other hand, has had a growth rate of 1.15 per cent a year, placing it second in the state behind Middletown.

Yocum said the population stagnation in the Appalachian region of the state was also reversed during the 1970s.

He said Ohio's 28 Appalachian counties experienced a growth of one per cent a year, compared with only .086 per cent a year in the 1960s.

Vocational Education Expanding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vocational education will be available to all Ohio high school students in September, 1975.

School districts not offering vocational education will be assigned to existing joint vocational schools to comply with a state law by next fall, the state Board of Education announced Monday.

John R. Meckstroth, Cincinnati board member, said if the 77 school districts not now in compliance can "come up with more suitable arrangements ... the state board will be pleased to give serious consideration to alternative proposals."

Meckstroth said 93 per cent of all high school students in the state presently have access to job training. "Most essential is that every student who desires to enter the world of work upon graduation from high school has the opportunity to prepare for satisfying and profitable employment," he said.

March board action also included the appointment of three new state Department of Education division directors.

Dr. James S. Lantz, superintendent of the Pike-Delta-York Local School District in Fulton County, was appointed director of elementary and secondary education.

Also appointed were: Raymond A. Wasil, director of the Summit County Department of Job Placement Services, to director of guidance and testing and Robert H. Koon, assistant director of the department's Division of Vocational Education, to head school food services.

The board allocated $8.9 million for construction of vocational shops and classrooms in 11 school districts.

Receiving matching vocational construction and equipment funds were: Barberton City; Cleveland City; Columbus City; Lordstown Compact, Trumbull County; Ohio Valley Local, Adams County; Penta County Joint Vocational; Perry Local, Stark County; Portage Lakes Joint Vocational, Summit County; South-Western City, Franklin County; Van Wert County Joint Vocational and Wadsworth City.

"Matching funds approved for some of the districts will not be available until Nov. 1, 1975, but action of the state Board of Education will enable construction to get underway through the use of local revenue," said William H. Cossler, of Youngstown, board president.

Studded Tire Act Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans won't be able to use studded snow tires after next Saturday unless the legislature passes a pending emergency bill and Gov. James A. Rhodes signs it.

Rep. Arthur Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, chairman of the House Highways and Highway Safety Committee, said he will seek quick House action on the measure approved by the Senate March 3.

Bowers introduced an identical bill in the lower chamber, but deferred to the Senate measure in the interest of time. The bill extends Ohio's present Nov. 15-to-March 15 "studded tire season" to Nov. 1-to-April 15.

The measure is designed mostly for the benefit of motorists in Ohio's northeastern snow belt, but sponsors noted that this week's snowstorm suggested it has broader application.

Rhodes hasn't commented on the bill publicly, but the Transportation Department objects to it on grounds the tire studs make grooves in highways.

Showdown Near In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior American officials say Communist troops are massing for a spring offensive in Vietnam, where a showdown battle could develop in the next six weeks.

Intelligence reports indicate the Communist strategy is to grab as much land as possible in South Vietnam and then ask for a cease-fire. The next step would be to return to the negotiating table, where the Communists would attempt to negotiate for what remains of South Vietnam.

One of the key targets of the expected North Vietnamese spring offensive is expected to be the bustling provincial capital of Tay Ninh, in the "Parrot's Beak" region near the Cambodian border. The city would provide a capital for the provisional revolutionary government of the Viet Cong.

While the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong may mass enough men to capture Tay Ninh, experts here do not believe the Communist forces can hold it against a determined South Vietnamese counter attack.

Other Communist objectives are in the rice-growing delta region and Kontum in the midsection, where the Communist forces have sought repeatedly to divide the south in half.

State Department spokesman Robert Funseth acknowledged Monday that there is now a heavy movement of men and supplies from North to South Vietnam. He said that close to 50,000 troops have moved south on the Ho Chi Minh Trail since the beginning of January.

Funseth said intelligence reports indicate the North Vietnamese "plan to continue heavy offensive action for the foreseeable future." He said the action again demonstrates Hanoi's gross violation of the 1973 Paris Peace Agreement.

According to intelligence reports, North Vietnam has moved its 968th Division from Laos into South Vietnam. The 341st Division is on the move southward and elements of the 316th and 312th Division are in the south.

According to American authorities, the cuts in the Ford administration's requests for military aid and the open debate on Cambodia is believed to be encouraging North Vietnam to take risks it would not have attempted one year ago.

Hanoi depends on both the Soviet Union and China for military assistance. According to some analysts here, the Chinese are continuing their flow of supplies now but are not committed to do so indefinitely.

The Chinese are believed to be unhappy at the thought that all of Indochina would be under the hegemony of Hanoi while the Soviet Union maintains more than one million armed men on the Chinese border.

HUNGRY FACES—Cambodian refugee children wait at a Catholic Relief Services soup kitchen at Wat Lai, north of Phnom Penh, for a meal. The U.S. airlift into Phnom Penh provides food, fuel and war materials into the area held by the Lon Nol government. Insurgents have cut land and water routes into the area.

Solons Move On Cambodian Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reluctant Congress is approaching decisions on additional military aid to Cambodia amid mounting pressure for the government of President Lon Nol to resign.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott joined other lawmakers Monday in calling for "a change in leadership" in Cambodia to facilitate negotiations for the safety of refugees in Phnom Penh, the besieged Cambodian capital.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield renewed his appeal for the return of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, ousted Cambodian chief of state and nominal leader of the Khmer Rouge insurgent forces.

The congressional debate over Cambodia aid appeared headed for a climax this week in three possible forums.

First, the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on foreign assistance comes to grips this afternoon with President Ford's urgent request for an additional $222 million, mostly for ammunition, to enable the Cambodian government forces to keep fighting until the rainy season begins around June 1.

Second, House Democrats have called a caucus meeting Wednesday morning to vote on a resolution opposing the Cambodian aid request. A heavy Democratic vote against the aid would end any hope of House approval.

Third, a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee is to make its recommendation on more aid Wednesday after the caucus votes.

In urging a change in the Cambodian leadership, Scott asserted that the United States "ought to exert as much pressure as is necessary" to obtain a transition government in Cambodia.

While Scott did not mention Lon Nol by name, an aide said later he meant the government leadership including Lon Nol.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said later that the U.S. government believes the Cambodians must decide for themselves whether to keep Lon Nol in office.

The same theme was touched on by a State Department spokesman who referred to an earlier outline of negotiating efforts that had been rebuffed by the insurgents. The outline enunciated the principle that "personalities" would constitute no obstacle to a settlement.

President Ford repeated the same principle at his news conference last Thursday, but he said it would not be appropriate for him to ask Lon Nol to resign.

State Department officials said congressional suggestions that Lon Nol resign could not have escaped the attention of Cambodian leaders.

Meanwhile, CIA Director William E. Colby reportedly told Congress Monday that he was pessimistic about the ability of the Cambodian government to survive.

Colby's closed testimony before the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee left several congressmen doubtful about the effectiveness of further U.S. aid.

Rep. Pierre du Pont, R-Del., said later that Colby had "reinforced my view that Cambodia can't make it even with more American aid."

Postal Superintendent Resigns From Post

FRANKLIN, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Postal Superintendent John Tewell has resigned from his post here after pleading guilty to misappropriating $70 of postal funds.

Tewell, who is also president of the Franklin School Board, appeared before a U.S. Magistrate Feb. 13.

Ohio Said Facing Population Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University economic analyst said Ohio's population growth rate in the 1970s has been the third lowest in the country, while its out-migration rate is topped only by the District of Columbia.

James C. Yocum said these population trends indicate the state may be undergoing a deterioration of its industrial base, similar to that which occurred in New England and some Middle Atlantic states in the early 20th Century.

But, he added, while industries may be decentralizing, "they are not moving out of Ohio as the textile and shoe industries did in New England."

Yocum said this might spare the state some of the worst social and environmental effects of industrialization, but it was also a challenge to revitalize development programs.

Yocum said Ohio still remains the hub of "the world's greatest industrial complex," extending from New York to the Mississippi River, and development programs should aim at attracting only "the best type of industry."

Yocum, whose report appeared in a university business research bulletin, said Ohio's July 1, 1973, population of 10,731,000 represented a gain of slightly more than two-tenths per cent for each year since 1970.

While Scott did not mention Lon Nol by name, an aide said later he meant the government leadership including Lon Nol.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said later that the U.S. government believes the Cambodians must decide for themselves whether to keep Lon Nol in office.

The same theme was touched on by a State Department spokesman who referred to an earlier outline of negotiating efforts that had been rebuffed by the insurgents. The outline enunciated the principle that "personalities" would constitute no obstacle to a settlement.

President Ford repeated the same principle at his news conference last Thursday, but he said it would not be appropriate for him to ask Lon Nol to resign.

State Department officials said congressional suggestions that Lon Nol resign could not have escaped the attention of Cambodian leaders.

Meanwhile, CIA Director William E. Colby reportedly told Congress Monday that he was pessimistic about the ability of the Cambodian government to survive.

Colby's survival testimony before the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee left several congressmen doubtful about the effectiveness of further U.S. aid.

Rep. Pierre du Pont, R-Del., said later that Colby had "reinforced my view that Cambodia can't make it even with more American aid."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, meeting with some new resistance from profit taking.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.88 at 774.25. Advances, however, held a moderate over-all lead over declines in another active session at the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it was natural for the market to encounter some selling after the sharp gains of the past two weeks, which had extended the Dow's rise since early December to nearly 200 points.

Anderson, Clayton was the most active issue on the NYSE, down 3/4 at 24 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index rose .28 to 78.50.

Gold issues gained with world bullion prices rising strongly.

The Big Board's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was off .06 at 44.82.

Rowan Cos. was the Amex volume leader, unchanged at 21 3/4.

City School Action Appealed By Fullers

A hearing began Monday afternoon on the appeal against a decision made by the Circleville City School officials. Mr. and Mrs. John Fuller are appealing the suspension of their son Robert E. Fuller on Feb. 12.

After three witnesses had testified and the hearing had extended late into the afternoon, the court continued the hearing until 1:30 p.m. on March 18.

The Fullers, represented by Richard Penn, are contending that their son's constitutional rights and due process of law were violated by the high school principal.

Circleville High School Principal Paul Sarchet and the school board are represented by Allan Berger who represented them in the last appeal case involving six other students who were suspended for violation of board policy.

The issue before Judge William Ammer is the determination of whether the Fuller youth was afforded due process.

According to testimony given Monday by Sarchet, Robert Fuller, a student at the high school, admitted drinking alcoholic beverages on the school grounds. In a second meeting with the principal, the boy changed his story and said he did not actually drink on the school grounds but had come to a basketball game after having consumed vodka at a house trailer occupied by Paul Downard. Sarchet testified to the various conferences held with both the boy and his parents.

Fuller's parents were notified first of a hearing on Feb. 6 on the principal's charges of drinking on school property. When the story was changed, the Fullers were then notified of a second hearing date in the principal's office on Feb. 10. The offense allegedly occurred on Jan. 31.

Sarchet made his decision to suspend Fuller on Feb. 12 and the board affirmed that decision in an executive meeting on Feb. 21. Fuller was subsequently suspended from school for ten days and, as provided by board policy, automatically suspended from participation in athletics for 40 days.

Further testimony in the courtroom Monday revealed that the Fuller boy went to the ballgame after drinking the alcoholic beverages and left before the varsity game began.

Confirming Sarchet's earlier testimony, Robert Fuller said that he had been in the principal's office twice and admitted that the first time he did not tell the truth. He said he had told Sarchet the first time that he was drinking on school property but in reality had only shown up at the ballgame after having consumed vodka. He also testified that he had become sick and went home and vomited two times.

Mrs. Fuller testified that her son had come home from the ballgame sick and she knew then he had been drinking.

Other witnesses for the appellant as well as the appellee will be called when the case resumes on March 18.

Widespread Attacks Sweep Vietnam

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese troops backed by tanks launched widespread attacks across South Vietnam today, toppling district capitals, bases and outposts, cutting highways and threatening to seize their second provincial capital in two months, military officials said.

Officials said the situation in the lower central highlands provincial capital of Ban Me Thuot — where nine Americans are trapped — worsened when North Vietnamese reinforcements backed by tanks renewed their assaults on the city and captured many parts of the town.

"Communist forces have launched a nationwide military campaign in South Vietnam," the Saigon command said. Heavy casualties were reported but no total count was available.

In Cambodia, heavy shelling of the Phnom Penh airport again curtailed the American airlift of rice from South Vietnam and DC8 jets bringing ammunition and other military supplies from Thailand. About 15 per cent less cargo was delivered.

South Vietnamese field reports said the reinforced 4,000-man government garrison at Ban Me Thuot had lost radio contact with the corps headquarters at Pleiku after one tank scored a direct hit on the city hall command post. But it remained in contact with observation planes acting as a relay station.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said the command staff at Ban Me Thuot had moved outside the headquarters to operate with ranger reinforcements flown in by helicopter. The Saigon command said the fighting — the heaviest since the fall of Phuoc Long Province north of Saigon last Jan. 7 — marks the start of a general offensive.

"Communist forces have actually begun their nationwide offensive campaign ..." the command said in a communique. "North Vietnamese units, supported by tanks and artillery, launched many shelling and ground attacks against government civilian population centers and military installations across South Vietnam."

In efforts to drive back two North Vietnamese regiments and other supporting units numbering perhaps 4,000 men with between 40 and 50 tanks, South Vietnamese bombers mounted 100 missions around the city, officers said. One of the bombers immediately knocked out the tank that made the direct hit on city hall, field reports said. A second tank was destroyed behind the city treasury building, the reports said.

This raised to 14 the number of North Vietnamese tanks claimed destroyed by South Vietnamese air and ground forces in the Ban Me Thuot battle.

Kidney Patient Flees Hospital, Found In County

A 19-year-old Gallipolis man who walked from University Hospital 11:30 p.m. Monday was found by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Leaker.

Through an intense and normal routine search of area motels, Leaker found the described auto parked at the L-K motel.

Leaker advised the man was very weak. University Hospital officials requested the patient be transported to the hospital as quickly as possible.

He is listed in poor condition today.

Single Car Wreck Injures 16-Year-Old

Sixteen-year-old Johnny A. Adkins, Route 1, Ashville was treated and released at Berger Hospital for a head injury received in a single-car accident, 1:15 p.m. Monday.

Northbound on Circleville-London-Eastern Road, Adkin's auto traveled off the left berm into a ditch and struck a utility pole.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Fite investigated the accident.

Fire Damages Farm Tractor

Fire caused $250 damage to a tractor while being driven on the Chillicothe-Williamsport Road, 4:20 p.m. Monday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy F. Randall McCoy, Cooke Metzger, Route 2, Williamsport, was traveling on the Chillicothe-Williamsport Road when the tractor caught fire.

Metzger hurriedly unhooked a feed mix grinder he was pulling and drove the tractor into a ditch.

Williamsport Fire Department extinguished the fire, which was apparently caused by a short in the wiring system.

Speed Survey Completed

Pickaway County Commissioners L. Robert Liston, Donald Strous and Dick T. Tootle received a speed survey completed by county engineer Henry McCrady Monday.

The survey will be referred to District 6 of the Ohio Department of Transportation. The survey is for the part of South Court Street that is not within the city limits and was requested by residents of the area who feel a reduced speed limit is warranted.

In other action Monday commissioners granted permission to General Telephone Co. to bury cable under the Ashville Fairfield Road just east of the Circleville-Groveport Road.

Commissioners received the report of the audit of their office conducted by the state auditor's department. The audit covered the period from May 1, 1970 to July 31, 1973. Commissioners serving during those years were Wayne Hines, Charles Morris, Dick T. Tootle and L. Robert Liston.

The auditor reported the records of the office were in order for the period of the audit.

Approve Outlay Of Defense Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State of Ohio approved on Monday the expenditure of more than one-half million dollars for legal costs in defending national guardsmen accused in the 1970 Kent State shootings.

The State Controlling Board approved release of $201,954 to the state attorney general's office from the state emergency fund for legal fees in the case. The board earlier had released $300,000 for legal expenses.

First Asst. Atty. Gen. Jim Laurenson said the money includes $75,000 to cover the costs of a civil trial beginning in May.

If the decision in that case is against the guardsmen, he said, more money will be needed to fight the case in appellate courts.

criminal, stem from the killing of four students and the wounding of nine others during an antiwar demonstration on the Kent State University campus in May, 1970.

Eight guardsmen were indicted by a federal grand jury for allegedly violating the civil rights of the students killed and wounded. A federal judge dropped charges against all eight during the trial, ruling the prosecution had not proved its case.

Still pending are civil suits for damages brought by the wounded students and by parents of the dead students.

Laurenson said trial begins May 19 on the civil suit seeking about $20 million in damages. The suit is a consolidation of about a dozen suits filed separately, he said.

Defendants include Gov. James A. Rhodes, former Kent State president Robert White and 48 guardsmen, from the adjutant general to the soldiers who fired their weapons.

Laurenson said the defense effort includes two assistant attorneys general and two private attorneys hired by the state. He said three offices are filled with documents related to the case, and attorneys are taking an average of about two depositions a day from potential witnesses.

He said the state has outstanding legal debts of $112,000 now, and added that "our best estimate of what these civil cases will cost" runs to $75,000.

"It could indeed be that it will exceed this amount," he said.

Sarchet made his decision to suspend Fuller on Feb. 12 and the board affirmed that decision in an executive meeting on Feb. 21. Fuller was subsequently suspended from school for ten days and, as provided by board policy, automatically suspended from participation in athletics for 40 days.

Further testimony in the courtroom Monday revealed that the Fuller boy went to the ballgame after drinking the alcoholic beverages and left before the varsity game began.

Confirming Sarchet's earlier testimony, Robert Fuller said that he had been in the principal's office twice and admitted that the first time he did not tell the truth. He said he had told Sarchet the first time that he was drinking on school property but in reality had only shown up at the ballgame after having consumed vodka. He also testified that he had become sick and went home and vomited two times.

Mrs. Fuller testified that her son had come home from the ballgame sick and she knew then he had been drinking.

Other witnesses for the appellant as well as the appellee will be called when the case resumes on March 18.

Widespread Attacks Sweep Vietnam

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese troops backed by tanks launched widespread attacks across South Vietnam today, toppling district capitals, bases and outposts, cutting highways and threatening to seize their second provincial capital in two months, military officials said.

Officials said the situation in the lower central highlands provincial capital of Ban Me Thuot — where nine Americans are trapped — worsened when North Vietnamese reinforcements backed by tanks renewed their assaults on the city and captured many parts of the town.

"Communist forces have launched a nationwide military campaign in South Vietnam," the Saigon command said. Heavy casualties were reported but no total count was available.

In Cambodia, heavy shelling of the Phnom Penh airport again curtailed the American airlift of rice from South Vietnam and DC8 jets bringing ammunition and other military supplies from Thailand. About 15 per cent less cargo was delivered.

South Vietnamese field reports said the reinforced 4,000-man government garrison at Ban Me Thuot had lost radio contact with the corps headquarters at Pleiku after one tank scored a direct hit on the city hall command post. But it remained in contact with observation planes acting as a relay station.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said the command staff at Ban Me Thuot had moved outside the headquarters to operate with ranger reinforcements flown in by helicopter.

The Saigon command said the fighting — the heaviest since the fall of Phuoc Long Province north of Saigon last Jan. 7 — marks the start of a general offensive.

"Communist forces have actually begun their nationwide offensive campaign ..." the command said in a communique. "North Vietnamese units, supported by tanks and artillery, launched many shelling and ground attacks against government civilian population centers and military installations across South Vietnam."

In efforts to drive back two North Vietnamese regiments and other supporting units numbering perhaps 4,000 men with between 40 and 50 tanks, South Vietnamese bombers mounted 100 missions around the city, officers said. One of the bombers immediately knocked out the tank that made the direct hit on city hall, field reports said. A second tank was destroyed behind the city treasury building, the reports said.

This raised to 14 the number of North Vietnamese tanks claimed destroyed by South Vietnamese air and ground forces in the Ban Me Thuot battle.

Kidney Patient Flees Hospital, Found In County

A 19-year-old Gallipolis man who walked from University Hospital 11:30 p.m. Monday was found by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Leaker.

Through an intense and normal routine search of area motels, Leaker found the described auto parked at the L-K motel.

Leaker advised the man was very weak. University Hospital officials requested the patient be transported to the hospital as quickly as possible.

He is listed in poor condition today.

Single Car Wreck Injures 16-Year-Old

Sixteen-year-old Johnny A. Adkins, Route 1, Ashville was treated and released at Berger Hospital for a head injury received in a single-car accident, 1:15 p.m. Monday.

Northbound on Circleville-London-Eastern Road, Adkin's auto traveled off the left berm into a ditch and struck a utility pole.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Fite investigated the accident.

Fire Damages Farm Tractor

Fire caused $250 damage to a tractor while being driven on the Chillicothe-Williamsport Road, 4:20 p.m. Monday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy F. Randall McCoy, Cooke Metzger, Route 2, Williamsport, was traveling on the Chillicothe-Williamsport Road when the tractor caught fire.

Metzger hurriedly unhooked a feed mix grinder he was pulling and drove the tractor into a ditch.

Williamsport Fire Department extinguished the fire, which was apparently caused by a short in the wiring system.

Speed Survey Completed

Pickaway County Commissioners L. Robert Liston, Donald Strous and Dick T. Tootle received a speed survey completed by county engineer Henry McCrady Monday.

The survey will be referred to District 6 of the Ohio Department of Transportation. The survey is for the part of South Court Street that is not within the city limits and was requested by residents of the area who feel a reduced speed limit is warranted.

In other action Monday commissioners granted permission to General Telephone Co. to bury cable under the Ashville Fairfield Road just east of the Circleville-Groveport Road.

Commissioners received the report of the audit of their office conducted by the state auditor's department. The audit covered the period from May 1, 1970 to July 31, 1973. Commissioners serving during those years were Wayne Hines, Charles Morris, Dick T. Tootle and L. Robert Liston.

The auditor reported the records of the office were in order for the period of the audit.

Deputy Resigns

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff accepted the resignation of Deputy Lawrence Holt, effective today.

Approve Outlay Of Defense Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State of Ohio approved on Monday the expenditure of more than one-half million dollars for legal costs in defending national guardsmen accused in the 1970 Kent State shootings.

The State Controlling Board approved release of $201,954 to the state attorney general's office from the state emergency fund for legal fees in the case. The board earlier had released $300,000 for legal expenses.

First Asst. Atty. Gen. Jim Laurenson said the money includes $75,000 to cover the costs of a civil trial beginning in May.

If the decision in that case is against the guardsmen, he said, more money will be needed to fight the case in appellate courts.

The Kent State cases, both civil and criminal, stem from the killing of four students and the wounding of nine others during an antiwar demonstration on the Kent State University campus in May, 1970.

Eight guardsmen were indicted by a federal grand jury for allegedly violating the civil rights of the students killed and wounded. A federal judge dropped charges against all eight during the trial, ruling the prosecution had not proved its case.

Still pending are civil suits for damages brought by the wounded students and by parents of the dead students.

Laurenson said trial begins May 19 on the civil suit seeking about $20 million in damages. The suit is a consolidation of about a dozen suits filed separately, he said.

Defendants include Gov. James A. Rhodes, former Kent State president Robert White and 48 guardsmen, from the adjutant general to the soldiers who fired their weapons.

Laurenson said the defense effort includes two assistant attorneys general and two private attorneys hired by the state. He said three offices are filled with documents related to the case, and attorneys are taking an average of about two depositions a day from potential witnesses.

He said the state has outstanding legal debts of $112,000 now, and added that "our best estimate of what these civil cases will cost" runs to $75,000.

"It could indeed be that it will exceed this amount," he said.

Keep America beautiful, but keep America alive!

Some of America's most beautiful resort areas lie along the Atlantic Coast. And no one wants to mar their beauty. It's much too valuable a natural resource.

But, there's another tremendously valuable natural resource over the horizon along the Atlantic Coast. Energy. Energy that is desperately needed to help ease our nation's worsening energy crisis.

We must not sacrifice one resource for the other.

And we needn't. Modern techniques for under-water drilling and delivery of fuel have eliminated the danger of permanent environmental damage. An offshore drilling rig won't even be seen from the shore. And offshore production will reduce the need for increased tanker traffic.

Developing domestic sources of energy is essential to the security of our nation. If our own sources of energy lie idle, America becomes dependent on expensive and insecure foreign sources, and sends more of our dollars overseas.

The Atlantic Coast areas depend on a prosperous America.

And a prosperous America depends on energy.

Since 1968, Columbia Gas has been participating in costly geophysical surveys off the Atlantic Coast. The tests range from North Carolina to Nova Scotia. We've also joined a 25 million dollar drilling exploration program off Canada's east coast, a promising source of clean, natural gas to help ease the energy crisis.

COLUMBIA GAS
Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

Keep America beautiful, but keep America alive!

Some of America's most beautiful resort areas lie along the Atlantic Coast. And no one wants to mar their beauty. It's much too valuable a natural resource.

But, there's another tremendously valuable natural resource over the horizon along the Atlantic Coast. Energy. Energy that is desperately needed to help ease our nation's worsening energy crisis.

We must not sacrifice one resource for the other.

And we needn't. Modern techniques for under-water drilling and delivery of fuel have eliminated the danger of permanent environmental damage. An offshore drilling rig won't even be seen from the shore. And offshore production will reduce the need for increased tanker traffic.

Developing domestic sources of energy is essential to the security of our nation.

If our own sources of energy lie idle, America becomes dependent on expensive and insecure foreign sources, and sends more of our dollars overseas.

The Atlantic Coast areas depend on a prosperous America.

And a prosperous America depends on energy.

Since 1968, Columbia Gas has been participating in costly geophysical surveys off the Atlantic Coast. The tests range from North Carolina to Nova Scotia. We've also joined a 25 million dollar drilling exploration program off Canada's east coast, a promising source of clean, natural gas to help ease the energy crisis.

COLUMBIA GAS
Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

IRS Carte Blanche

Unless clarified by future court decisions or restrained by Congress, the Supreme Court's extension of investigative powers by the Internal Revenue Service will do nothing to calm public suspicion of big government.

In a 7-2 ruling involving a Kentucky tax case, the court gave the IRS virtually carte blanche authority for fishing expeditions in any cash transaction which evoked the agency's curiosity.

Under review by the court was a case in which a $40,000 deposit in worn $100 bills was made in a Kentucky bank.

Without knowing anything more, the IRS issued a summons on the bank to identify the depositor. The bank refused and a U.S. circuit court ruled the IRS had no authority to issue a summons without identifying the individual whose records it wished to investigate.

In overturning the lower court, the top tribunal said: "Although such investigations necessarily involve some invasion of privacy, they are essential to our self-reporting system, and the alternatives could well involve far less agreeable invasions of house, business and records."

In view of past IRS indiscretions, what could be worse than extending the agency's investigative powers without knowing what or whom it was investigating?

NEW YORK — An intoxicating ad in the traditionally prim N.Y. Times, whose style book requires reporters to refer to the foulest mass murderers as "Mr.," has to do with a book about Hugh Hefner written by one Frank Brady, "who for many years was one of Hefner's most trusted corporate lieutenants and closest confidants." The book is titled "Hefner," perhaps the result of a nationwide contest to find a great title for a book about Hefner. It is published by Avant Garde Books, N.Y., for $8.95 (plus 75 cents posting and handling). Handling with tongs, one supposes.

"Get your copy today," reads the ad in the paper whose deathless slogan is "All the News That's Fit to Print." And it goes on, "With Frank Brady, climb the thick, red-carpeted grand staircase of Hefner's 100-room mansion in Chicago. Enter the magnificently appointed, incensed, 25-foot-high-ceiling, windowless, bed-chamber that Hefner describes as his 'womb room.' Share the life of The Consummate Playboy of the Western World, a man so monomaniacally devoted to pleasures of the flesh that he can cockily proclaim—as he does on a brass plaque beneath the bell of his bedroom door — 'Si None Oscillas, Noli Timere' (Latin for, 'If you don't seing, don't ring.')."

No thanks. Went there once, during the riotous 1968 Democratic Convention, with Irv Kupcinet and our wives (one each). The only thing cooking was hamburgers.

If you can raise a few bucks more, surprisingly few, you might get more out of a huge 488-page classic titled "The Last Two Million Years," published by Reader's Digest and edited and designed by 34 of Britain's top historians, anthropologists, artists and writers. They might just happen to lead you on a more entrancing tour than Frank Brady's surreptitious climb of the thick, red-carpeted grand staircase in Chicago. There wasn't any Chicago or Hefner, or even Richard Daley, when your ancestors were puzzling over how to stand on their hind legs instead of all fours, and happenings in subsequent millenniums in caves, Mesopotamia, ancient Egypt, Persia, Rome, Islam, India, China, Japan, Africa and the lands of the Mayans, Aztecs, Incas, and the places of those who gave you something that rules your life, named Western Civilization.

Beats a Bunny.

The recent scuffle between sports columnists Red Smith of the N.Y. Times and Larry Merchant of the N.Y. Post, as to the precise birth and death dates of the Golden Era of Sports-writing, and who was the catalytic man who brought together the best assembly of golden pens, did not run the Depression off their front pages. But it was a confrontation that was interesting to one who once made a living in that field of arrested development.

Neither sports historian mentioned a pretty good country hand named Homer, who about the 8th century B.C., while covering the Olympics, scratched the truest line yet written about sportswriters (and all other critics). It was to the effect that they were driven by a secret envy of the better-muscled, better-equipped people they wrote about.

There wasn't a truer "lead" than that written until 1930s when Joe Louis, a 14-to-1 shot over Max Schmeling in that first of two fights was beaten lopsided by the German. Jack Miley of the N.Y. Daily News started his story that night with "The cow killed the

Dixon Out As Antioch President

NEW YORK (AP) — The resignation of Antioch College President James P. Dixon, who has been the target of increasing criticism the past two years, was accepted by school trustees Sunday.

The action at a meeting in a New York City hotel was unanimous, according to a spokesman for the Yellow Springs, Ohio, college. The resignation is effective June 30, 1977, "or upon selection of a successor, whichever is first."

Dixon, who has held the post since 1959, could not be reached for comment. A telephone operator said his home phone in Yellow Springs had been disconnected.

A board statement noted that the action followed "completion of a two-year program to institute new financial and administrative controls expected to result in a budgetary surplus this year."

Dixon's troubles began in the spring of 1973 when a 47-day student strike over a cutback in tuition grants virtually shut down the school. The strike was followed by a motion of no confidence being brought against him by the board of trustees.

Various reports circulated recently, including one confirmed by Dixon, himself, that the trustees were about to ask for his resignation.

Much of the criticism was based on Antioch's precarious financial picture, with some students and faculty members charging that a network of affiliates was being developed at the expense of the mother campus in Yellow Springs.

butcher."

No generation ever had a lock on incomparable sportswriters: no sports staff, no matter how brilliant, can sustain a dying newspaper, to wit the N.Y. Herald Tribune. The N.Y. American fielded a pretty fair team to cover the Louis-Braddock title fight in Chicago; Damon Runyon, Ed Frayne, Jimmy Cannon, Sid Mercer, Bill Slocum, Bugs Baer, Lewis Burton, and me. The paper folded two days later.

TV's inundating coverage has taken much of the surprise out of straight sportsreporting. Everybody knows the score and has been gluttoned with replays before the writer sits down to proclaim the simple-witted facts, sometimes not to be read for 12 or 24 hours later. But it's still a pretty good dodge that lends itself to an occasional pyrotechnic — such as the Smith-Merchant bit and, of happy memory, the description by the late Jimmy Isminger of the Philadelphia Inquirer of a 90-yard punt made by a Notre Dame back named William Shakespeare in a game against Penn. "That's one the Baconites can't claim," Jimmy wrote.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

It has been quite some time since I have written a letter to the editor of any newspaper, however, I feel compelled to write in answer to Mr. George's letter of March 5 dealing with "What is socialism able to do?" I will not attempt to counteract all the "advantages" of socialism which Mr. George portrays as space would not permit, however, I feel it is my duty as a patriotic citizen and one who has been blessed by the fruits of the free enterprise system to name but a few.

First of all, Mr. George, in speaking of anti-Semitism, should be aware of the fact that anyone who opposes the Communist State (Socialist if you prefer although there is a difference) can be considered anti-Semitic and be shot, imprisoned or deported. Are not the Jews being persecuted in Russia today? Mr. George also makes mention of the economic blockade of Russia by 15 capitalist countries.

Has he forgotten the billions of lend-lease during WW II supplied by the U.S., most of which has never been repaid? Can Mr. George be so naive to believe that the USSR could not have advanced economically, scientifically and socially if it were not for the cultural exchange program of our country? And a question of importance I would like to pose to Mr. George — were all the "phenomenal" advances in education, science, social welfare, living standards, etc. done by the free choice of the people? Mr. George, in the USSR you don't have any choice. You work where the state tells you and the amount of money you can earn. The Communist State spends its money on anything it chooses to do so it has no opposition.

If there is universal medical care, full employment, abolition of poverty and elimination of hunger in the USSR as Mr. George states, then it would appear that the USSR is a utopia. I would suggest that Mr. George read some American history and learn the advantages the individual has under the free enterprise system, then if he feels the Communist-Socialist state is superior to ours that he make arrangements to leave. If Mr. George is employed and has a car, then I suggest he give up his job and take his car with him. He would be helping to solve our unemployment and energy crises. After all, if he isn't happy here, we wouldn't want him to stay.

Care Urged In Selecting Tax Firms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Commerce Department has advised Ohioans seeking professional help with federal income tax forms to carefully consider a firm before hiring it.

The department said many well-known tax preparation services have been attacked recently by the Federal Trade Commission for illegal practices.

One finance company operating in Ohio was singled out by an FTC administrative judge for advertisements offering "instant tax refunds."

The judge said the company's ads contained no warning that the "tax refunds" were normal consumer loans with regular finance charges.

The state Commerce Department said certain firms have also been charged with illegally using confidential information to solicit loans and to sell insurance, mutual funds and other services.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Headache is probably the most common symptom that is brought to the attention of doctors. The key word is that a headache is a "symptom," and not a "disease."

There are so many variations of the symptom of headache that it sometimes takes the most arduous investigation to track down its cause.

Physicians who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of headaches (and there are such specialists) now study the total patient from a medical and psychological point of view.

The hereditary background, the social and economic structure, and the occupation of the patient all play a role in the production and eventual relief from headache.

Doctors get their clues to the origin of headaches from minute details about when they occur, their frequency and their relationship to daily activity.

Certain types of headache are more quickly recognized than others. Migraine, for example, is one that is usually limited to half the head and may be associated with visual disturbances prior to the onset of the headache.

Throbbing, pulsating headaches suggest some vascular origin. High blood pressure must then be ruled out.

Sharp, shooting neuralgic pains in the head may be caused by sinus infection, dental disturbances or disorders of the jaw joint.

Many people complain of headaches that are induced by psychological stress. The complexities of modern living are so great that one is rarely free of tension. Physicians very carefully rule out every conceivable physical factor before suggesting that chronic headaches are of psychogenic origin.

There are many techniques by which the brain and its vascular system can be studied. X-rays, spinal taps and scanning of the brain rule out the more severe reasons for headache.

Eye problems, especially glaucoma, may produce pain in the eye and in the head. Poor vision, uncorrected by glasses, and eyestrain are possible causes, too.

A condition known as "temporal arteritis" involves the temporal artery in the side of the head. This, too, is ruled out in the complete study of persistent headache.

Far too many people remain devitalized and unproductive because of persistent headaches. Many have tried wide varieties of medicines without any benefit. The key, of course, to the eradication of headaches is to determine its exact cause by intensive study.

Unless the cause is determined, medical treatment at best is haphazard and rarely fruitful.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With spring coming on, the seasonal adjustment that helped keep the jobless rate from rising in February will begin to work in the opposite direction. It could make the figures look worse.

During March and April, economic activity generally increases and so does the number of job opportunities. The economy is expected to support more jobs; if it doesn't — and even if the jobless total doesn't rise — the rate of unemployment will.

The February rate of 8.2 per cent unemployed will be considered by some to be good news, mainly because it was no higher than in January. But to believe this is to put too much faith in numbers.

When March and April figures come in they could be decidedly worse.

Numbers are mere tools and symbols that mankind uses for his convenience. But since fallible minds are involved, the figures don't necessarily depict the truth.

The fact that more than a half million persons dropped out of the labor force should, by all logic, be interpreted as a worsening of the employment situation. But in terms of the jobless rate, that helped stabilize it.

There is no escaping the reasoning involved here: If a person is out of work so long that all hope evaporates, he or she is simply removed from the labor force by the statisticians. Problem solved!

Another situation involves the size of the labor force. If a person is to remain a member of the job force, for statistical purposes, he or she must have actively sought work during the four weeks previous to being questioned.

Apply that criterion to an autoworker who is receiving 95 per cent of his paycheck although unemployed, and who isn't looking for another job because he expects to be recalled to the assembly line.

Certainly he or she could be out looking for work, but it would seem to defy common sense to remove oneself from a lifelong occupation and give up jobless benefits.

But even if these distortions of the jobless picture are discounted, it is likely the March unemployment rate will be higher than for February.

Capital spending plans of business are low, which means little expansion and a relatively few new jobs.

Moreover, it now appears the inventory hangover will last many more weeks before idle production facilities will be put to work. As of January inventories were still rising.

As is often the case, the key over the next few weeks will be the automotive industry. Some assembly lines are being reactivated because stockpiles of cars have been reduced from 110 days supply in January to 67 days now.

However, part of that inventory reduction resulted from the rebate program, which was enormously costly to the auto companies and isn't likely to be tried again for a long time.

If car sales lag, then it won't take many weeks for those inventories to build back toward the three-month supply that almost smothered the industry. And the immediate result will be layoffs.

Rocky Mountain Fever Increasing

CHICAGO (AP) — Cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in the United States for 1974 ran about 19 per cent ahead of 1973, according to the Journal of the American Medical Assn. The federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reports that the tick-borne disease has been increasing in its statistics since 1968. Not only is the increase due to improved surveillance, but "it appears there has been a real increase in incidence of the disease in recent years."

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is caused by Rickettsia rickettsii, a bacterium that infects the wood tick and other ticks. The rickettsiae are transmitted from ticks to humans, infecting the humans.

Rickettsiae are named for Howard T. Ricketts (1871-1910) of the University of Chicago. Bacteria of the genus Rickettsia cause epidemic typhus, murine or endemic typhus, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and other diseases.

Ricketts, after whom the University's Ricketts Laboratory is named, died of typhus after he had identified the specific bacterium, also named for him, that causes Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Headache is probably the most common symptom that is brought to the attention of doctors. The key word is that a headache is a "symptom," and not a "disease."

There are so many variations of the symptom of headache that it sometimes takes the most arduous investigation to track down its cause.

Physicians who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of headaches (and there are such specialists) now study the total patient from a medical and psychological point of view.

The hereditary background, the social and economic structure, and the occupation of the patient all play a role in the production and eventual relief from headache.

Doctors get their clues to the origin of headaches from minute details about when they occur, their frequency and their relationship to daily activities.

Certain types of headache are more quickly recognized than others. Migraine, for example, is one that is usually limited to half the head and may be associated with visual disturbances prior to the onset of the headache.

Throbbing, pulsating headaches suggest some vascular origin. High blood pressure must then be ruled out.

Sharp, shooting neuralgic pains in the head may be caused by sinus infection, dental disturbances or disorders of the jaw joint.

Many people complain of headaches that are induced by psychological stress. The complexities of modern living are so great that one is rarely free of tension. Physicians very carefully rule out every conceivable physical factor before suggesting that chronic headaches are of psychogenic origin.

There are many techniques by which the brain and its vascular system can be studied. X-rays, spinal taps and scanning of the brain rule out the more severe reasons for headache.

Eye problems, especially glaucoma, may produce pain in the eye and in the head. Poor vision, uncorrected by glasses, and eyestrain are possible causes, too.

A condition known as "temporal arteritis" involves the temporal artery in the side of the head. This, too, is ruled out in the complete study of persistent headache.

Far too many people remain devitalized and unproductive because of persistent headaches. Many have tried wide varieties of medicines without any benefit. The key, of course, to the eradication of headaches is to determine its exact cause by intensive study.

Unless the cause is determined, medical treatment at best is haphazard and rarely fruitful.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With spring coming on, the seasonal adjustment that helped keep the jobless rate from rising in February will begin to work in the opposite direction. It could make the figures look worse.

During March and April, economic activity generally increases and so does the number of job opportunities. The economy is expected to support more jobs; if it doesn't — and even if the jobless total doesn't rise — the rate of unemployment will.

The February rate of 8.2 per cent unemployed will be considered by some to be good news, mainly because it was no higher than in January. But to believe this is to put too much faith in numbers.

When March and April figures come in they could be decidedly worse.

Numbers are mere tools and symbols that mankind uses for his convenience. But since fallible minds are involved, the figures don't necessarily depict the truth.

The fact that more than a half million persons dropped out of the labor force should, by all logic, be interpreted as a worsening of the employment situation. But in terms of the jobless rate, that helped stabilize it.

There is no escaping the reasoning involved here: If a person is out of work so long that all hope evaporates, he or she is simply removed from the labor force by the statisticians. Problem solved!

Another situation involves the size of the labor force. If a person is to remain a member of the job force, for statistical purposes, he or she must have actively sought work during the four weeks previous to being questioned.

Apply that criterion to an autoworker who is receiving 95 per cent of his paycheck although unemployed, and who isn't looking for another job because he expects to be recalled to the assembly line.

Certainly he or she could be out looking for work, but it would seem to defy common sense to remove oneself from a lifelong occupation and give up jobless benefits.

But even if these distortions of the jobless picture are discounted, it is likely the March unemployment rate will be higher than for February. Capital spending plans of business are low, which means little expansion and a relatively few new jobs.

Moreover, it now appears the inventory hangover will last many more weeks before idle production facilities will be put to work. As of January inventories were still rising.

As is often the case, the key over the next few weeks will be the automotive industry. Some assembly lines are being reactivated because stockpiles of cars have been reduced from 110 days supply in January to 67 days now.

However, part of that inventory reduction resulted from the rebate program, which was enormously costly to the auto companies and isn't likely to be tried again for a long time.

If car sales lag, then it won't take many weeks for those inventories to build back toward the three-month supply that almost smothered the industry. And the immediate result will be layoffs.

Rocky Mountain Fever Increasing

CHICAGO (AP) — Cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in the United States for 1974 ran about 19 per cent ahead of 1973, according to the Journal of the American Medical Assn. The federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reports that the tick-borne disease has been increasing in its statistics since 1968. Not only is the increase due to improved surveillance, but "it appears there has been a real increase in incidence of the disease in recent years."

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is caused by Rickettsia rickettsii, a bacterium that infects the wood tick and other ticks. The rickettsiae are transmitted from ticks to humans, infecting the humans.

Rickettsiae are named for Howard T. Ricketts (1871-1910) of the University of Chicago. Bacteria of the genus Rickettsia cause epidemic typhus, murine or endemic typhus, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and other diseases.

Ricketts, after whom the University's Ricketts Laboratory is named, died of typhus after he had identified the specific bacterium, also named for him, that causes Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Hearing Set For Orlett

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A preliminary hearing will be held next Monday for State Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, charged with felonious assault of a parking lot attendant.

Orlett Monday requested a full hearing when he appeared before a judge in Franklin County Municipal Court.

If probable cause is found next Monday, the judge will send the case before a grand jury.

George F. Dempster, 64, assistant manager of the Statehouse underground parking garage, accused Orlett on Thursday of attempting to run him over.

Police Homicide Detective Tom Strausbaugh said Dempster claims Orlett drove his car into him after the lawmaker was unable to produce a parking ticket and was told he would have to pay a set fee or go back into the Statehouse and get his legislator's free parking ticket stamped.

Dempster said he flung himself on the car hood to avoid being hit. Strausbaugh said Dempster received minor bruises.

Orlett told a Dayton newspaper he offered to sign a blank receipt or pay the fee, but Dempster insisted on a stamped ticket. The legislator said Dempster spreadeagled himself on the car hood, and Orlett left the car to get a stamped ticket.

Orlett, 41, a former Trotwood city councilman, faces a possible 2-15-year sentence and a fine up to $7,500 if convicted.

Vitamin C Dispute Remains Unchecked

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Chicago scientists say there is little convincing evidence that daily doses of Vitamin C have any effect on the frequency or severity of the common cold.

But Dr. Linus Pauling, a Nobel laureate in chemistry and leading advocate of high doses of Vitamin C for treating colds, says the pair has not looked at all the evidence. Pauling says he is still convinced that Vitamin C — ascorbic acid — is beneficial.

The Chicago scientists, Dr. Michael H.M. Dykes of the American Medical Association's department of drugs, and Dr. Paul Meier, a University of Chicago statistics professor, reviewed studies of Vitamin C in the March 10 issue of the association's journal.

"emergency" farm legislation the coalition endorses.

The coalition, representing 13 farm organizations and what it said is "the majority of farmers in 49 states," said Monday that it urges approval by Congress and the President of the increased 1975 target prices and loan rates due to come before the House March 18.

At the same time, the National Farmers Union issued a statement terming the bill, which passed the House Agricultural Committee overwhelmingly last week "totally inadequate."

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has called the figures in the bill "totally unacceptable" as too high, the opposite sentiment of NFO President Tony T. Dechant.

The coalition, with Fred V. Heinkel of the Midcontinent Farmers Association serving as spokesman, said: "If farmers are to produce for empty stomachs and empty granaries, as they have been requested to do by their government, it is only fair and logical that the government should share in these uncertainties. Specifically, farmers need meaningful price protection."

While conceding that cotton and dairy farmers will be helped only marginally by the proposed increases in target prices and milk price supports, Heinkel said that "the reason the levels ... aren't higher ... is a practical question of what can you pass, what will the President sign."

Beyond that, he said, "What we're talking about is a question of whether you want farmers to stay in business, period. This is not a get-rich bill."

The coalition and the NFO agreed that the government urgently needs a long-range national farm-and-food policy and that parity — or farm purchasing power equal to nonfarm purchasing power — should be the yardstick for price floors in such a policy.

But the NFO said the present House bill is unacceptable and it hopes the Senate will bring it in line with "full parity."

ORDINANCE NO. 30-75 AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING AN EMERGENCY MEDICAL AND RESCUE SERVICE, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

Whereas, the City of Circleville is without emergency medical and rescue services, conforming either to the criteria established by the State of Ohio Department of Transportation and Department of Health or the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration;

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, STATE OF OHIO:

SECTION 1: That the City of Circleville provide for a volunteer emergency medical team by adopting the unit presently formulated and known as the Emergency Medical Team.

SECTION 2: That the Emergency Medical Team shall be operated and governed by those rules and regulations adopted by majority vote of its members and shall be administered by a Board consisting of the Director of Safety of the City of Circleville, the Team Medical Adviser, and the President of the Emergency Medical Team, which administrative board shall be responsible to the Mayor of the City of Circleville.

SECTION 3: The emergency medical and rescue services shall be available on a twenty-four hour basis at such times as all personnel are trained and the requisite equipment and communications installed.

SECTION 4: The City of Circleville shall provide such equipment and training as is necessary to initiate and operate such service including but not limited to the following:

a. One (1) new modular rescue vehicle designed and built in accordance with the specifications provided by the Emergency Medical Team Administrative Board.

b. Medical and rescue equipment in sufficient quantity and quality as described by the American College of Surgeons and the Administrative Board.

c. Communication equipment, including but not limited to two-way mobile units from the vehicle to dispatching organization, communications unit for Berger Hospital Emergency Room, at least two (2) walkie-talkie units operable over a range of 1250 feet and such tone alert devices as are necessary.

d. Such training as is necessary and determined by the Emergency Medical Team Administrative Board.

SECTION 5: The Administrative Board shall within sixty (60) days subsequent to enactment of this Ordinance submit to the Council of the City of Circleville a budget for approval and on or before the 30th day of June annually thereafter.

SECTION 6: The Administrative Board of the Emergency Medical Team shall and hereby is authorized to enter into a contract with the Industrial Commission, Bureau of Workman's Compensation to cover up to sixty (60) Team members.

SECTION 7: The Administrative Board of the Emergency Medical Team may and hereby is authorized to enter into contracts for service and mutual aid on an uniform basis with any governmental unit, corporation or individual including but not limited to any village, township or any part of any such governmental unit.

SECTION 8: That the Council declares this to be an emergency measure, necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety and welfare, such emergency arising out of the need to protect the safety and welfare of the general public; wherefore this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress

In light of the sudden proliferation of intelligence oversight committees, I cannot help but be deeply concerned about the future effectiveness of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The American people need to be assured that the CIA and other intelligence-gathering agencies conduct their operations without violating their constitutional rights. And we must be assured that the intelligence agencies are doing only what they should be doing to gather intelligence. The risk is that too much public exposure of a highly sensitive area of government will put the whole operation out of business, and imperil the reputations — and even the lives — of people involved, to say nothing of the nation's security.

Legal statutes of the United States have no criminal penalty for even the highest ranking intelligence officers, Members of Congress, or anyone else for disclosing highly classified intelligence.

What the situation calls for is the establishment of a single, non-partisan and permanent Joint House-Senate Committee to coordinate the monitoring and investigation of government intelligence activities, both at home and abroad. This would avoid the present division of investigations between one White House Commission and eight Congressional committees and subcommittees.

Setting up separate overlapping committees not only wastes time and tax dollars, but greatly increases the likelihood of security leaks in this sensitive area. Already a number of CIA agents have resigned in anticipation of committee improprieties. Agents have been known to be murdered by the KGB, the Soviet Union's counterpart to the CIA, after their identities and activities were disclosed.

Primarily, the CIA is a Government agency collecting foreign intelligence of the most highly sensitive nature.

To be effective, it must be secret. If intelligence facts are disclosed, they often lose all of their value. If an adversary merely infers that we have certain intelligence, often it is no longer of value.

This is not a political issue, and the CIA is not a political agency. It serves whatever President happens to be in office, irrespective of that person's political affiliation.

In the broad sense, the CIA has done

The risk is that too much public exposure of a highly sensitive area of government will put the whole operation out of business, and imperil the reputations — and even the lives — of people involved, to say nothing of the nation's security.

Legal statutes of the United States have no criminal penalty for even the highest ranking intelligence officers, Members of Congress, or anyone else for disclosing highly classified intelligence.

What the situation calls for is the establishment of a single, non-partisan and permanent Joint House-Senate Committee to coordinate the monitoring and investigation of government intelligence activities, both at home and abroad. This would avoid the present division of investigations between one White House Commission and eight Congressional committees and subcommittees.

Setting up separate overlapping committees not only wastes time and tax dollars, but greatly increases the likelihood of security leaks in this sensitive area. Already a number of CIA agents have resigned in anticipation of committee improprieties. Agents have been known to be murdered by the KGB, the Soviet Union's counterpart to the CIA, after their identities and activities were disclosed.

Primarily, the CIA is a Government agency collecting foreign intelligence of the most highly sensitive nature.

To be effective, it must be secret. If intelligence facts are disclosed, they often lose all of their value. If an adversary merely infers that we have certain intelligence, often it is no longer of value.

This is not a political issue, and the CIA is not a political agency. It serves whatever President happens to be in office, irrespective of that person's political affiliation.

In the broad sense, the CIA has done an extensive and effective job in dealing with enemy capabilities and intentions.

In a time of nuclear weapons, with the power to deliver warheads on target from continent to continent, we must have responsible information from many foreign sources.

We often save great sums of money, because this intelligence lets us know what weapons to avoid building as well as what weapons are most probably needed.

Liberal politicians, still lamenting the fall of the Communist regime in Chile, undoubtedly will try to make a whipping boy out of the CIA again. This would be extremely unfortunate, as these inquiries are far too important to be jeopardized by the personal crusades and witch-hunts of ambitious politicians.

If all domestic counterespionage is to be more severely restricted — as seems to be the mood of the liberal majority — Congress will also have to figure out how the CIA is to protect its "sources and methods" from unauthorized disclosure.

The very last thing we need right now, is another costly committee to add to the proliferation of investigations into intelligence activities. And yet, this is exactly what is happening. I recently voted against the formation of such a committee in the House. Nevertheless, the bill passes 286 to 120.

If it is obvious to me that this new House committee is merely a last-minute and thinly-disguised attempt by the majority party to get in on some of the publicity that this controversial investigation will surely bring.

The makeup of seven Democrats and three Republicans is a further indication that partisanship rather than patriotism was the motivating force behind the creation of this committee.

Senator John Pastore of Rhode Island, who sponsored the resolution to set up a similar panel in the Senate, told newsmen that he wanted something "new and fresh." What he and the rest of the country could well get is disaster!

Most CIA agents are capable, loyal and responsible men. They seldom get credit for anything. They often get blamed — but by and large, they continue to carry on.

There are no secrets in a congressional hearing. That was proven conclusively during the impeachment hearings last year. I hope the same situation won't happen again. But the risk is there. And it is a serious risk.

ORDINANCE NO. 25-75 ORDINANCE FIXING THE NUMBER AND CLASSIFICATION OF MEMBERS OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION—Open house will celebrate the 45th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Huffer, 203 N. Scioto St., in their home 2-4 p.m. Sunday. The couple was married March 11th, 1930 in the parsonage of Robtown-Ashville United Brethren Church with the Rev. Lewis Hampshire officiating. They are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Roy (Pauline) Garrett, 544 E. Union St., Mrs. James (Carol Ann) Emerine, 203 N. Scioto St., three sons, Bennie and Ronald of Circleville, and Lloyd of Sunbury. There are 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Two sons, Paul and Boyd, are deceased.

Annual World Day Of Prayer Attended By 100 Women

The annual World Day of Prayer service was held Friday in Trinity Lutheran Church. Over 100 local women attended joining in prayer with the people in many countries throughout the world.

Mrs. William Weller welcomed them all on behalf of the women of Trinity Lutheran Church. Members from 10 local churches took part in the program, which was prepared by the Women's Ecumenical Prayer Fellowship of Egypt.

Hannah Neil Home For Children Holds Orientation Meet

An orientation meeting for the new members of the service board of Hannah Neil Home for Children was held at the home, 727 E. Main St., on Jan. 29th. New officers for the year will be: Mrs. Selmer L. Lehmann, president, 8500 Jackson Pike; Mrs. Maurice J. O'Reilly, 5945 Cooper Road, vice president; Mrs. Donald Tomblin, 2786 Elginfield Drive, secretary; and Mrs. Dale Dickerson, 1453 Wren Lane, treasurer.

During the meeting the new members were welcomed by C.B. Hayslett, 3155 Eakin Road, executive director of Hannah Neil Home for Children. The program included discussions of the history of Hannah Neil, a tour of the home, and luncheon.

Hannah Neil Home for Children, Inc., is a private child welfare institution operated by a board of trustees which provides care and treatment-focused services for children with emotional, learning and behavior problems. The home provides an atmosphere where the child learns to live with other children and finds himself in relationships with accepting and supporting adults.

The professional staff and consultants work closely with selected houseparents to assist and support them in the task of giving the child a 24 hour a day corrective small group-living. Referrals are accepted from parents, professional persons, courts and public and private agencies involved with the children it serves.

For further information please contact: Patricia Bowers, 1920 Northwest Blvd., 488-0897.

Vera Saunders, Twyla Lorentz Attend Institute

Mrs. Vera Saunders and Mrs. Twyla Lorentz of Pickaway Senior Center attended a two day institute at Dayton University, on the subject "Aging As A Normal Process".

The Institute was planned by the Case Western Reserve University School of Applied Social Sciences, in cooperation with the Ohio Commission on Aging. Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming, training officer of the Ohio Commission, was the planning coordinator, and Joseph Halbfinger of Case Western, was the Institute coordinator.

Mrs. Gay Kitson, Ph.D. of Case Western spoke on "Aging." A videotape presentation on "Normal Aging - A 15 Year Study" was the first afternoon presentation. This was originally done by Dr. Erie Pfeiffer M.D., professor of psychiatry at Duke University.

Another speaker was Mildred M. Seltzer, Ph.D. of Miami University, speaking about "The Normal Psychology Of Aging".

The final presentation was also a tape, done by Mrs. Elaine Brody, director of social work, Philadelphia Geriatric Center, speaking on "Planning Services For The Elderly." Each presentation was followed by a panel discussion, including audience participation. Seven workshops on related subjects were held, with two sessions held on each subject.

Closing comments and information were given by Mrs. Fleming, Harvey H. Klein, Health and Welfare Planning Council of Dayton, and David Stivison, committee on poverty of the Ohio Council of Churches, Columbus.

Panel Discusses Foster Children For CCD League

Circleville Child Development League heard a panel discussion Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Wayne Lash, Route 4. Panel members included Mrs. Robert Adkins, Supervisory Case Worker of the Pickaway County Children's Services, and foster mothers, Mrs. Kester McCain, Mrs. John Neff and Mrs. Robert Scranton.

Mrs. Adkins mentioned that there is a need for foster homes for teenagers. Panel members agreed that a foster child should be a functioning member of a family, and should be included in all family discussions, outings, etc.

Easter gifts that will be given to the children of the league's adopted family were shown to members.

Plans were discussed for the Pickaway County Bi-centennial program and the part that the league will take in it.

The club made plans to take their children on an outing May 17th, to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pontius. Five members are going to the club's District Spring Conference on May 21st.

The slate of officers for 1975-76 was presented, and the election will be held at the April meeting.

Co-hostess Mrs. Marcy Hostetler served refreshments to 16 members.

The next meeting will be on April 1st in the home of Mrs. David Scheible, 681 Fairlawn.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Not Ticked By George's Mustache

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago, when we were on vacation, my husband neglected to shave for a few days, so our daughter said: "Oh, Daddy, you'd look neat in a mustache, please grow one!"

Well, George grew a mustache. I didn't like it one bit, and I told him so, but he hasn't said anything about shaving it off. I don't hassle him about it, but he knows how I feel.

Some of our friends like George's mustache, and some don't, but George seems to hear only the compliments he gets on it.

Personally, I think he should listen to me. As his wife, I surely want what is best for him and I wouldn't steer him wrong.

Abby, why would a man insist on wearing a mustache (or a beard) when he knows his wife doesn't like it?

ONE WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Facial hair on men communicates a variety of messages. Among the most obvious are: "Like it or lump it, I'm old enough to shave and have the whismers to prove it, and I'm doing my own thing."

It's a symbol of independence, and in some cases, it's a decoration one courageously confers upon himself.

DEAR ABBY: What one thing most inspires you to write?

NOSY IN N.J.
DEAR NOSY: The Bureau of Internal Revenue.

DEAR ABBY: I prepared a huge, lovely dinner party myself. When my guests departed, they all thanked me and raved about how wonderful everything was.

The next morning, each one telephoned to tell me again how much they enjoyed the dinner, repeating the compliments about the food, etc.

Abby, I had no help, and there was plenty of cleaning up to do after the party, and I was very much annoyed with those unnecessary calls. Each one talked for 15 minutes to half an hour, and when they all finished, my morning was gone.

After having already thanked me, I felt it was totally unnecessary for them to call the next morning and take my time as they did.

On top of it all, one of the guests took a tremendous amount of meat for her second helping, and then asked for a doggie bag.

What is your opinion of both cases?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: In addition to verbal thanks on departing, a written note to reiterate one's appreciation is far more appreciated, and less intrusive than a telephone call. And as for the doggie bag number-Wow, and bow wow! Shame on her.

DEAR ABBY: My wife recently lost her mother whom we loved dearly. My wife was an only child and "Moms" left us a substantial sum of money.

Although we are a young family with young children and have had a difficult time making ends meet, we cannot bring ourselves to spend any of our inheritance.

We don't dislike money, and could have enjoyed spending some of Mom's money while she was still alive if she had just made an occasional small gift to us and said: "Here, I know you can use a few luxuries, so please take it, and spend it and enjoy it!"

Abby, what do you think of this? Are we normal to feel as we do? Sign us . . .

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: I think you're probably sufficiently "normal" to get over your present attitude, and adopt the "better late than never" philosophy. P.S. Write to me in a year from now, and if you still can't spend it, I can recommend some dandy charities.

Prison Chief Keeps Open Mind

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Jago, new superintendent of the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, believes in keeping an open mind.

"I try to look at both sides of the coin before making a decision," he said in a dry, measured voice.

His colleagues in the state corrections department would agree with him.

"His reputation among corrections staff members is that of a very firm person, but also a very fair person," said George Denton, corrections department director.

Denton appointed Jago to his new post at the maximum-security prison on Feb. 16.

Jago—pronounced "JAYgo"—has built his reputation over nearly 23 years in the Ohio corrections system.

He started out in 1952 as a guard at the old Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus, now the Corrections Medical Center.

"I had just got out of the Navy and was wanting a job," Jago recalled.

Since then, he has pursued his career with a steady determination.

Notes Denton: "All the usual qualities apply to Jago—hardworking, dedicated, loyal."

For nine years before coming to Lucasville, Jago was associate superintendent at the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Col. Robert M. Chiaramonte, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol, announced today he would retire effective April 5.

Chiaramonte, who joined the patrol in 1942, has served as superintendent since November 1965.

He served longer than any uniformed officer in the highway patrol's history. He was in the first class of patrol cadets after the minimum age was lowered from 24 to 21.

Chiaramonte, 55, was to submit a letter today regarding his retirement plans to Donald D. Cook, director of the Department of Highway Safety.

A new superintendent will be appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Chiaramonte said he was retiring "because it is time." Patrolmen must retire at age 55, with the exception of the superintendent who serves at the pleasure of the governor.

His boss there, Supt. Frank Gray, said he "has a way of putting a sensitive finger on the heart of an issue—he'll do a great job down there (at Lucasville)."

Jago starts with an advantage in his new post.

"I'm already well acquainted with many of the management people and corrections officers and also many of the inmates from my years at the Ohio Penitentiary and Chillicothe," he said.

Jago said, he wanted to maintain "an honest rapport, a straightforward approach" with Lucasville's 1,300 inmates.

"I don't have any radical changes in mind," he said. "I just want to run a well-established, efficient correctional agency."

He admitted, however, that because of past incidents in which guards have been killed "Lucasville has a reputation that needs to be gotten rid of."

Jago thinks he can do it.

"This isn't a new ball game for me," he said. "I feel I'm in a position where all my training and background can be used. And I have a very cooperative staff."

Southeast Cage Stars Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Winning postseason coaching honors is old hat for Tom Cuppett and Carroll Hawhee. It's something new for Don Cantrell, though.

The three were named The Associated Press' Ohio Southeastern District high school basketball Coaches of the Year Monday by an area panel of sports writers.

Cuppert, turning out a 12-6 team at Chillicothe, earned the Class AAA district coaching honors for the third consecutive season.

Hawhee, several times Southeastern Ohio League Coach of the Year, completed his 28th season at Waverly with a 17-1 power that was ranked third in the state.

Cantrell hit the jackpot in the first season at Beaver Eastern, guiding a 15-5 squad for the Class A district Coach of the Year title.

Dave Underwood, a 6-foot-3 center-forward for Portsmouth, took the Class AAA Southeastern Player of the Year laurels. Underwood averaged 14 points and 11 rebounds for the Trojans.

Kevin Canter, NelsonvilleYork's 6-1 Class AA area Player of the Year, poured in points at a 23.3 clip.

Mick Shoemaker, a second team all-stater last season for Bainbridge Paint Valley, earned his second straight all-district berth. Shoemaker, a 6-1 guard, averaged 30.9 points and led his team in assists and rebounds.

The AP's Ohio Southeastern District high school basketball all-stars:

CLASS AAA
FIRST TEAM—Dave Underwood, Portsmouth, 6-foot-3, Sr., 14.0 points per game; Terry Richardson, Chillicothe, 6-4 Sr., 13.8; Don Young, Logan, 6-4 Sr., 15.1; Jeff Benson, Chillicothe, 6-3 Sr., 11-0, and Doug Petty, Lancaster, 6-foot Jr., 13.8.

SECOND TEAM—Mark Geisler, Marietta, 6-2 Jr.; Arnie Chonke, Athens, 6-5 Jr.; Mitch Wright, Logan, 6-2 Sr.; Alan Conner, Washington Court House Miami Trace, 5-11 Jr., and Steve Swinehart, Lancaster, 6-1, Jr.

PLAYER OF YEAR—Dave Underwood, Portsmouth.

COACH OF YEAR—Tom Cuppett, Chillicothe.

CLASS AA
FIRST TEAM—Kevin Canter, Nelsonville-York, 6-1 Sr., 23.3; Joe Holland, Waverly, 6-1 Sr., 14.2; Tom Turner, Wheelersburg, 6-5 Sr., 14.8; Dan Bise, Stewart Federal-Hocking, 6-5 Sr., 22.2, and Rick Carrington, Portsmouth West, 6-4 Sr., 16.0.

Logan Elm Grad To Play In AAU National Tourney

Royce Woolever, a graduate of Logan Elm High School and Southern Mississippi University, will be participating in a National AAU basketball tournament to be played at Hattiesburg, Miss., and Baton Rouge, La.

recently switched to forward. He likes the way the game is played on the AAU level. "It's faster and rougher than in either high school or college and a lot more fun," he reports.

Woolever believes the switch has helped him, both in scoring and rebounding. He even has the opportunity to bring the ball down the floor in his new position.

His teammates include a 7-foot-1 center with pro experience and a 6-foot-6 forward.

Woolever recently was contacted by the Kentucky Colonels about a possible tryout with the ABA pro team. However, his plans for the future right now are kind of up in the air, depending possibly on his performance in the tournament.

Always heavily scouted by the pros, this year should be no different and a good performance by Woolever and by his team could lead to a bona fide offer from a professional team.

But if the pro offer is not forthcoming nor attractive enough, he hopes to have the opportunity to teach and to coach basketball.

Old Dominion Set For Final Tourney

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Long-time small college basketball power Old Dominion, one of three teams considered favorites, makes its farewell appearance in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College Division II tournament, beginning here Wednesday.

Akron and Assumption are also tabbed possible winners of the tourney.

No. 6 ranked Old Dominion (22-6), which will be moving up to the major college division next year, is led by sophomore center Wilson Washington, a 6-foot-9 transfer from Maryland.

Dead Heat Recorded At Latonia Course

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Baby's Swinger caught Elkwood Flash at the eighth pole and the pair finished in the first dead heat of the meeting at Latonia Race Course Monday night, in the $3,500 featured eighth race.

Baby's Swinger paid $3.80, $4.20 and $2.40. Elkwood Flash returned $3.40, $3.40 and $2.40. Winning time for the 5½ furlongs was 1:07 2-5.

BB's Pride paid $2.80 for third.

All-Big Ten Team Selected

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-ranked and undefeated Indiana placed three stars to dominate the 1975 All-Big Ten basketball team named today by The Associated Press.

Named to the All-Conference squad were Scott May, towering Kent Benson and play-making guard Quinn Buckner, each a key factor in the Hoosier's 18-0 record and walkaway Big Ten title.

May and Benson, along with Big Ten scoring champion Terry Furlow of Michigan State, each captured all except two first-team votes from the 10-member AP selection panel.

Also honored on the six-player first unit were Purdue's John Garrett and Michigan State's Lindsay Hairston, the only repeater from the AP's 1974 honor team. He tied with Buckner for the fifth spot.

Barely missing the first team were Ohio State's Bill Andreas and Michigan's C. J. Kupec, who led a second team that also included Indiana's Steve Green, Michigan's Joe Johnson and Minnesota freshman Mark Olberding.

The selection reflected a surge of new stars into the Conference this season. Buckner, Furlow and May, who missed the final three games because of a broken arm, are juniors, and the 6-11 Benson is a sophomore.

Only six seniors, including Hairston and Garrett on the top unit, were named on the first two teams.

Green, from Indiana's starpacked squad, slipped from first team recognition last season while Buckner and Garrett, Purdue's top scorer and rebounder, moved up from second team selection in 1974.

Furlow, a 6-foot-4 the next to smallest first team player, wound up the Big Ten scoring champion with a 21.4 average. His Spartan teammate, the 6-foot-7 Hairston, led the league in rebounding with an average of 11.3. Hairston also was the rebound champion last season.

The 6-foot-8 Kupec, Michigan's scoring and rebound leader, was a second team repeater, while Rick Schmidt of floundering Illinois slipped from second team to honorable mention.

Quinn Buckner, Indiana, 6-3, Junior, Phoenix, Ill.

John Garrett, Purdue, 6-11, Senior, Peru, Ind.

Lindsay Hairston, Michigan State, 6-7, Senior, Detroit.

SECOND TEAM
Bill Andreas, Ohio State, 6-7, Senior, Sugar Creek, Ohio.

C.J. Kupec, Michigan, 6-8, Senior, Oak Lawn, Ill.

Steve Green, Indiana, 6-7, Senior, Milan, Ind.

Mark Olberding, Minnesota, 6-8, Freshman, Melrose, Minn.

Joe Johnson, Michigan, 5-11, Senior, Detroit.

Astros Defeat Red Sox, 7-3

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

It may be only spring training, and early spring training at that, but Boston Manager Darrell Johnson is in midseason form.

The Red Sox dropped a 7-3 decision to the Houston Astros Monday and balks by Boston rookies Steve Barr and Mark Bomback played a large part in the outcome.

Barr's balk came in the fourth inning and, along with Bob Watson's two-run double, helped the Astros take a 3-0 lead. Two innings later, Houston picked up two more runs with the aid of Doug Rader's double and Bomback's balk.

It was all too much for Johnson, and when umpire Joe Brinkman called the balk on Bomback, Johnson stormed out of the dugout, protesting violently.

En route to Brinkman, the Boston manager kicked dirt on umpire Andy Olsen and Olsen promptly thumbed him out of the game, earning the Boston manager the first ejection of the spring.

Thus inspired, the Sox rallied for three runs but it was too little, too late.

In baseball's other grapefruit league games, Philadelphia defeated the New York Mets 7-3, Baltimore pounded Texas 10-0, Minnesota edged Los Angeles 4-3, the New York Yankees topped Atlanta 4-3, the Chicago White Sox whipped St. Louis 8-3, Cincinnati shaded Kansas City 2-1, Detroit dumped Pittsburgh 7-4, Montreal got by the Tokyo Giants 4-3 in 10 innings and the Chunichi Dragons burned a second Detroit squad 14-7.

The Phillies made it four victories in as many outings on the strength of two-run doubles by Greg Luzinski and Jerry Martin.

Baltimore jumped on Texas right-hander Jim Bibby for six runs and eight hits in three innings and wound up with 15 hits on the afternoon. Elrod Hendricks had three of them.

Jerry Terrell walked, took third on an error and raced home on a fielder's choice with the winning run in the eighth inning for Minnesota.

Lou Piniella homered and Ron Blomberg and Eddie Leon hit run-scoring singles in the Yankees' win over Atlanta.

The White Sox won for the first time in four tries behind doubles by Bucky Dent, Bill Melton and Brian Downing.

Pinch-hitter Arturo DeFreitas doubled home one run and scored the other in the eighth to lift Cincinnati past 0-3 Kansas City.

Aurelio Rodriguez belted a two-run double and Gary Sutherland homered to help Detroit down Pittsburgh.

Barry Foote drove in the decisive run with a 10th-inning single for Montreal against Tokyo.

Chunichi hitters tagged relief ace John Hiller and three other Tigers for 13 hits in its victory over a second Detroit squad. John Wockenfuss hit a three-run homer for the losers.

Few Surprises In Tourney List

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Old Man Upset has been on a virtual holiday so far in the Ohio Class AAA high school basketball tournaments.

Seven of The Associated Press' top ten-ranked powers during the regular season have reached the final 16 in the regional tournaments this week.

And two of the three eliminated, No. 5 Dayton Roosevelt and No. 6 Alliance, fell to other members of the Top Ten.

Third-ranked Kettering Alter polished off Roosevelt and Alliance fell to second-rated Canton McKinley.

Toledo Scott, fourth-ranked, was upset by unranked Toledo Macomber in the Toledo District finals last week.

Still in the running for the state tournament title are No. 1 Middletown, No. 2 McKinley, No. 3 Alter, No. 7 Barborton, No. 8 Zanesville, No. 9 Newark and No. 10 Elyria.

All three AP poll champions are in contention, Class AAA Middletown, Class AA Circleville and Class A Mansfield St. Peter's.

Only three other Class AA ranked squads are alive, however. They are fifth-rated Rossford, No. 6 Warsaw River View and No. 7 Springfield Shawnee.

In Class A, seven of the Top Ten have fallen by the wayside. St. Peter's, fifth-ranked Pettisville and seventh-rated Windham will play in regionals this week.

Four games Wednesday night launch regional play.

In Class AAA, McKinley, in the Sweet 16 for the 24th time without a state championship, takes on Youngstown South in the Canton Auditorium. McKinley is 21-1 and South 18-4.

Also in Class AAA at the University of Dayton, Middletown (22-0) plays Trotwood-Madison (20-2) and Alter (22-0) tangles with Cincinnati Bacon (20-2).

There are no Class AA regional contests and the only Class A contest Wednesday night sends Kalida (16-6) against Mount Blanchard Riverdale (17-5) at Bowling Green University.

The survivors of regional championships Saturday will form the semifinals for the Ohio high school tournament March 20-22 at Ohio State University.

Circleville High School Sells Regional Tickets

Pre-sale of tickets for Circleville's first-round regional basketball game with Springfield Shawnee were available at Circleville High School today until 4:30 p.m.

The tickets will be available until the school's allotment is sold out or until Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

The Tigers will take on the Braves of Springfield Shawnee 9:30 p.m. Friday in the University of Dayton Arena.

All seats in the arena are reserved. Pre-sale price is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students, while the at-the-door price is $2.50.

There will be two lines at the high school pre-sale, one for adults and one for students. Adults who want their children to sit with them should purchase their tickets in the adult line. Everyone, including pre-schoolers, needs a ticket.

The school has been allocated 2,500 tickets, 1,000 students and 1,500 adults. Tickets will be good for the Cincinnati Reading - Dayton Stivers regional game which will be played 7:30 p.m. Friday. The winner of that game will play the winner of the Circleville-Springfield game in the Regional finals Saturday at 9:30 p.m.

Circleville officials will sell tickets for the final game immediately following the semi-final round. Persons are asked to bring correct change to facilitate handling. The same prices will be observed.

The arena has theater-type seats and a seating capacity of 13,500. Doors will open Friday at 6:30 p.m. with tickets being sold at the door beginning at 12 noon.

Ohio High School Athletic Association rules prohibit signs, bands, or noise-makers in the building. Arena rules prohibit the use of or throwing of confetti or similar materials. This includes shakers, all types of megaphones, pom-poms, signs for card sections, and towels.

Students are requested to sit in their seats while the game is in progress. No one is permitted on the playing floor or in the locker rooms.

Directions to the Dayton Arena and parking information will be published in Wednesday's issue of The Herald.

Milwaukee Tops Kings; Wins 103-96

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Count Kansas City-Omaha in the scramble for the National Basketball Association Western Conference wild card playoff spot.

At least Coach Phil Johnson says so, even though his Kings still hold second place in the Midwest Division.

Milwaukee, written out of the playoffs by many a week ago, further jammed the race Monday night by beating the Kings 103-96 in the only NBA game played. There were no American Basketball Association games scheduled.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 13 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter, while Bob Dandridge contributed two baskets and a steal in the last 2½ minutes as the Bucks earned their fourth victory in five games.

The Kings' fifth defeat in eight games dropped them 3½ games behind first-place Chicago and only 3½ ahead of third-place Detroit.

Milwaukee, while still last in the Midwest, is only one game behind Detroit and 4½ behind the Kings. The Bucks, now 32-35, have a better win-loss percentage than Seattle, Portland and Phoenix, who rank second through fourth, respectively in the Pacific Division.

The conference's best third place team gets the wild card berth.

Southeast Cage Stars Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Winning postseason coaching honors is old hat for Tom Cuppett and Carroll Hawhee. It's something new for Don Cantrell, though.

The three were named The Associated Press' Ohio Southeastern District high school basketball Coaches of the Year Monday by an area panel of sports writers.

Cuppitt, turning out a 12-6 team at Chillicothe, earned the Class AAA district coaching honors for the third consecutive season.

Hawhee, several times Southeastern Ohio League Coach of the Year, completed his 28th season at Waverly with a 17-1 power that was ranked third in the state.

Cantrell hit the jackpot in the first season at Beaver Eastern, guiding a 15-5 squad for the Class A district Coach of the Year title.

Dave Underwood, a 6-foot-3 center-forward for Portsmouth, took the Class AAA Southeastern Player of the Year laurels. Underwood averaged 14 points and 11 rebounds for the Trojans.

Kevin Canter, Nelsonville-York's 6-1 Class AA area Player of the Year, poured in points at a 23.3 clip.

Mick Shoemaker, a second team all-stater last season for Bainbridge Paint Valley, earned his second straight all-district berth. Shoemaker, a 6-1 guard, averaged 30.9 points and led his team in assists and rebounds.

The AP's Ohio Southeastern District high school basketball all-stars:

CLASS AAA
FIRST TEAM—Dave Underwood, Portsmouth, 6-foot-3, Sr., 14.0 points per game; Terry Richardson, Chillicothe, 6-4 Sr., 13.8; Don Young, Logan, 6-4 Sr., 15.1; Jeff Benson, Chillicothe, 6-3 Sr., 11.0, and Doug Petty, Lancaster, 6-foot Jr., 13.8.

Logan Elm Grad To Play In AAU National Tourney

Royce Woolever, a graduate of Logan Elm High School and Southern Mississippi University, will be participating in a National AAU basketball tournament to be played at Hattiesburg, Miss., and Baton Rouge, La.

recently switched to forward. He likes the way the game is played on the AAU level. "It's faster and rougher than in either high school or college and a lot more fun," he reports.

Woolever believes the switch has helped him, both in scoring and rebounding. He even has the opportunity to bring the ball down the floor in his new position.

His teammates include a 7-foot-1 center with pro experience and a 6-foot-6 forward.

Woolever recently was contacted by the Kentucky Colonels about a possible tryout with the ABA pro team. However, his plans for the future right now are kind of up in the air, depending possibly on his performance in the tournament.

Always heavily scouted by the pros, this year should be no different and a good performance by Woolever and by his team could lead to a bona fide offer from a professional team.

But if the pro offer is not forthcoming nor attractive enough, he hopes to have the opportunity to teach and to coach basketball.

At least Coach Phil Johnson says so, even though his Kings still hold second place in the Midwest Division.

Milwaukee, written out of the playoffs by many a week ago, further jammed the race Monday night by beating the Kings 103-96 in the only NBA game played. There were no American Basketball Association games scheduled.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 13 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter, while Bob Dandridge contributed two baskets and a steal in the last 2½ minutes as the Bucks earned their fourth victory in five games.

The Kings' fifth defeat in eight games dropped them 3½ games behind first-place Chicago and only 3½ ahead of third-place Detroit.

Milwaukee, while still last in the Midwest, is only one game behind Detroit and 4½ behind the Kings. The Bucks, now 32-35, have a better win-loss percentage than Seattle, Portland and Phoenix, who rank second through fourth, respectively in the Pacific Division.

The conference's best third place team gets the wild card berth.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 20): The importance you attach to some things may have to be shifted to more pertinent matters, but there ARE times when certain essentials must supersede immediate desires.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Venus not too auspicious. This means a need for more concentrated effort, perhaps a readjustment of your schedule, the better to suit changing requirements.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): An analytical look at your position may indicate some new avenues to pursue. Keep alert to future moves, possibilities for making new contracts.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Opponents to your plans or policies may have a point or two. Try for clarification. Many differences can be avoided.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Emphasize your resourcefulness and sense of responsibility. It will pay off in the days ahead. Do not let down in effort until deals are satisfactorily concluded.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): This is no time for "giving up" — especially if a project or task is really worth a second, even a third try. Your ability to persist is the answer.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Don't make agreements with "strings" attached. You must be free to deviate from plans where advisable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): An average day, but give some thought to future ventures. The p.m. hours will be excellent for following on new contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Jupiter in excellent aspect. A bit of daring could pay off now. Don't hesitate to try unique ideas, methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some adverse influences, especially as related to financial affairs. Not a day for taking any chances with present assets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Avoid current tendencies to scatter energies and to start too many things at one time. Neither enter into new activities without thorough investigation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You will face competition now, but it won't stymie you. Rather, it will prove a stimulating challenge. Get in there — and win!

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most serious thinkers of all zodiacal natives, yet you have a light side, too, and could make your mark in the entertainment world if such are your inclinations. However, there are many other fields open to you since there are almost endless variants to your nature. Your intense sympathy for your fellowman makes you a natural candidate for medicine, nursing and institutional work, dealing with the underprivileged. Your depth of emotion may find outlets in the worlds of literature, philosophy, music or poetry, and your love of learning — and ability to impart it — fits you for a career in teaching. Traits to curb: hypersensitivity, moodiness, tendencies toward self-indulgence. Birthdate of: Edward Albee, Amer. playwright; Gordon MacRae and Liza Minnelli, singers, entertainers.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Keep an eye out for two superb shows, "Of Pure Blood" and "Zulu Romeo-Good Start," if your public TV station is participating in the Public Broadcasting Service's "Festival '75."

The first show is a grim, brilliant study of Nazi wartime efforts to create a "super race." The second is a wonderful, excellently photographed look at the mystique of world championship gliding.

Both are standout offerings in the special package of shows 93 stations are airing during "Festival '75," an 11-day effort to swell the ranks of viewers who regularly contribute to local public TV.

"Of Pure Blood," made by a French team and narrated by BBC personnel, investigates Hitler's "Lebensborn" group, whose job it was to evolve the "master race" through selective breeding of Nordic types.

How ridiculous Hitler's racial theories were is well illustrated when the show interviews a middle-aged German. He recalls that as a schoolboy he was taught how to distinguish the Nordic type — grey-blue eyes, a narrow nose, thin lips, straw-blond hair.

How diabolic these theories proved is amply shown with old Nazi film clips and documents interspersed with new interviews with some observers, victims, opponents and — believe it or not — defenders of the Nazi "Lebensborn" program.

Under the program, women deemed racially "pure" by Himmler's SS were urged to bear children, even outside of marriage, by equally "pure" German men headed for war, preferably SS officers.

Approved trysting emporiums even were established so SS men and patriotic women — not all the latter from Germany — could gather to breed little supermen and superwomen for der Fuhrer.

"Of Pure Blood" is chilling, but "Zulu Romeo-Good Start" is a warming and welcome change, and an uncommonly knowledgeable look at the fun, tension and diverse personalities involved in unpowered flight.

Produced by an Australian documentary team headed by John Walker, it covers the world gliding championships held in January 1974 at a remarkably verdant outpost called Waikerie in South Australia.

If aviation isn't your cup of tea, then I both pity you and advise you to skip this show. But anyone even vaguely interested in the wild blue will find this aerial essay a thing of beauty and spirit.

Judge Approves Desegregation Plan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Dayton school board's voluntary desegregation proposal, which calls for limited busing and a heavy emphasis on "magnet" schools to achieve integration, was approved Monday by U.S. District Court Judge Carri B. Rubin.

Rubin said the board's plan "will have an integrative effect upon the Dayton school system (with 45,000 students) and is provisionally adopted for the school year 1975-76."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Detroit, which offered another integration plan, said the group would appeal, according to Louis Lucas, chief counsel.

The NAACP proposal, Rubin said, imposed a "burden" upon the school "beyond that which it is presently required to bear."

Rubin accepted the "magnet" approach to desegregation, where students will be drawn from throughout the city to centrally located schools. Five "magnet" schools are anticipated.

If successful, Rubin predicted, it "will provide an opportunity to students, both black and white, to obtain additional educational advantages equally attractive to both."

Rubin ruled that the law does not require "the adoption of a mathematical plan" containing a breakdown of students along racial lines in the school system.

The judge said that the NAACP's more extensive proposal "is not required at this time." In fact, he added that it violated the U.S. Equal Educational Opportunities Act.

Rubin said he will watch the implementation of the plan and will review its progress Oct. 1.

Rubin said it was unknown if the school board fully studied all possible desegregative techniques, so he ordered it to prepare a study. Further hearings then would be held, he said, possibly resulting in an alternative desegregation plan to be established before 1976. He described the board's plan as "desegregative in intent," but set some additional ground rules for it.

He said the burden of transportation to the "magnet" schools should be equally distributed between black students and white students and that the faculty assigned to all programs must reflect racial percentages of teachers within the entire school district.

Efforts to integrate the Dayton school system go back to 1970 when a liberal-controlled board directed Wayne M. Carle, superintendent at the time to draw a desegregation plan.

The liberals later lost control of the board to a conservative faction.

Rubin ruled in 1973 that segregation existed in the Dayton system.

Disaster Nursing Seminar Set

A Disaster Nursing Workshop will be held at Community United Methodist Church March 25 under the auspices of the American Red Cross. The course is open to registered nurses, licensed practical nurses and student nurses.

The class will be taught by Clara S. Schuster, R.N. who is currently an instructor in Nursing at Ohio State University.
